Bamboo Palm

Chamaedorea seifrizii

This is a great low to medium light plant. It is one of the more narrow growing palms. So it works well in a tight spot or corner. This palm is native to Mexico.

These palms work well in a commercial setting.

Water only when the soil feels like it's drying out.

Fertilize throughout the summer months with a diluted liquid fertilizer.

Repot only if it hasn't been done in a while, with a good draining potting mix. Add worm castings to the soil for natural nutrients.

They do like humidity so use a humidity tray.
